The TIHL™ Insulating Valve Handle Does Even More? No Sweat!

The new TIHL™ insulating valve handle delivers a smarter, safer, and more efficient solution for commercial and industrial piping systems. In stock and available for immediate shipment, TIHL helps contractors, distributors, and facility managers keep projects on schedule while reducing maintenance downtime.

Designed to satisfy applications that require extended lockable valve handles, the TIHL can help meet project and facility specifications for safety, accessibility, and Lockout/Tagout compliance. Its integrated lockout feature provides functionality not available with previous INSULATOR models. (Safety lock not included.)

Designed for easy operation and field installation, the TIHL can be quickly added to compatible valves, making it ideal for both new construction and retrofit applications. Its upgraded memory stop adjusts easily with simple thumb screws and requires no tools for stop adjustment, eliminating the time-consuming disassembly required by many competitive handles.

Like the INSULATOR/TIH, the TIHL creates a heat-transfer barrier between the valve handle and surrounding air, helping reduce or eliminate condensation while preventing moisture from infiltrating insulated systems. With an operating range of 15°F to 250°F, it provides a versatile solution for a wide range of applications and is certified to UL standards.

Available for all ¼" through 2" Milwaukee Valve brass and bronze commercial ball valves, the TIHL combines condensation control, easy adjustments, field-installable convenience, specification-friendly design, and enhanced safety in one innovative solution, helping professionals work smarter while improving system performance and reliability.
